Description

This unfurnished three-bedroom apartment in Ayios Ioannis spans 160 square meters, with two bathrooms and elevator access to the unit. The layout gives each bedroom its own share of that space, while the two bathrooms mean less competition for the family or housemates sharing the apartment. Being unfurnished, the space is ready for a tenant's own furniture and layout from the start.

Elevator access serves the building, useful for moving in and for everyday convenience regardless of floor. The apartment is close to a highway, making it straightforward to reach other parts of the city by car, and everyday amenities are within easy reach for routine errands.

Ayios Ioannis lies within Limassol, a coastal city on Cyprus's south coast. The area carries the kind of amenity mix typical of a city neighborhood of its size, with shops and services woven through streets of apartment blocks alongside older, lower-rise buildings. That setting puts daily conveniences close at hand while keeping the apartment connected to the wider city via the nearby highway.
